Kissinger, accompanied by his wife, Nancy, flew from Washington Friday night to brief the President today on latest Mideast developments.

Kissinger said he and Ford would 'review the status of the negotiations.... As you know, the Israeli cabinet is going to meet on Sunday, and there are a number of other things that need discussions.

White House aides said the secretary hoped to spend much of the weekend relaxing. The Kissingers are staying in a private residence near the chaletstyle home that the Fords are renting.

Kissinger has said he would resume his Mideast shuttle diplomacy only when he was 90 per cent sure of concluding the accord.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said Friday in Tel Aviv he "would not be surprised" if Kissinger came to the Middle East before the end of next week to work out final details.

Allon said an agreement with Egypt is closer "than any time in the past" but that several problems still require clarification.

Cairo's semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram reported that Kissinger would fly to Israel on Wednesday and then go to the Egyptian resort city of Alexandria on Friday to meet with President Anwar Sadat. After completing his Israeli-Egyptian mission, the secretary will stop in Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia, Al Ahram said.

Allon said that if American personnel were sent to the Middle East as part of a disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt, the personnel would be civilian and not military

'This is not a military presence, but a civilian presence with more political than military meaning," he said in a television interview.

Leahy said he had discussed the hiring situation with Chiaramonte and saw little problem.

WASHINGTON (AP) — For some people, the smell of a steak grilling on a charcoal fire is nauseating, or not even there. For some, the taste of that steak can make them ill. Or perhaps they cannot taste it at all.

Problems of taste and smell may afflict 2 million Americans, according to Dr. Robert L. Henkin, head of Georgetown University's Center for Molecular Nutrition and Sensory Disorders. For thousands of patients, it is better known as the taste and smell

"It's easy to sympathize with the patient who has cancer," but not always with someone who cannot taste the flavor of food or smell a fragrance, Henkin said during an interview

For some people, it's a lifethreatening abnormality. For some people it's the way we diagnose their underlying disease," he said. Henkin hopes to continue at Georgetown his 10 years of research into taste and smell abnormalities that he pioneered while with the National Institutes of Health. He ran the NIH's $200,000-a-year taste and smell clinic until it was closed last month in a government economy move.

His research has centered on the possibility that loss of the senses may be linked to a lack of zinc or other trace metals in the body

Along with treating new patients at Georgetown, Henkin will continue treatments for the 2,000 patients who came to him at the NIH

For some people, common tastes and smells found pleasant by most people can cause nausea, he said.

Two Washington Senior High School students will leave Sunday for a twoweek singing engagement with the 1975 All-Ohio Youth Choir.

April Flowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Flowers, 422 Fourth St., and Mike McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McDonald, 815 Lincoln Drive, will join the choir, which is comprised of students from each of Ohio's 88 counties and is one of the many groups that perform each year during the Ohio State Fair

Recommendation for membership in the youth choir is made by the students' high school choir directors and director of the youth choir. The choir, in past years, has had nearly 500 members.

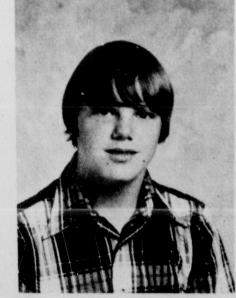

Each member has the opportunity the following summer to tour Europe as Goodwill 'America's Singing Ambassadors."

April, who will be a junior this fall at Washington Senior High School, is a member of the school's symphonic choir and has been active in all of the choir's projects. She is also a new member of the high school's "Harmony Seekers" singing group.

Report FBI ran anti-Klan campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI ran a covert, 10-year operation to disrupt the Ku Klux Klan by distributing anonymous postcards and cartoons, forming a phony anti-Klan committee and planting anti-Klan articles in the news media, according to newly disclosed FBI documents.

The operation against the Klan and other so-called "white hate groups" such as the National States Rights party and the American Nazi party, was described in 125 pages of FBI files turned over Friday to reporters who petitioned for them under the Freedom of Information Act nine months ago.

The files provided the first public glimpse of the counterintelligence program, called Cointelpro by the FBI, against white hate groups. The FBI previously was forced to disclose

Prison guard firings upheld

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The firing of 21 employes of Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville has been upheld by the State Personnel Board of Review.

Seven other employees were reinstated, and the firings of 26 more were reduced to 90-day suspensions. The rulings involved employes dismissed as the result of a strike at the penitentiary May 12-28

The board said it generally upheld firings of persons who engaged in picketing that prevented others from entering; handed suspensions to those who could have entered but didn't and reinstated those who were threatened or had physical disabilities that would have kept them off the job regardless of the strike.

Board members Warren S. Earhart and Frank E. Avren handed down the decisions. Member James E. Hughel abstained from voting.

Khondakar Mushtaque Ahmed, the new president, said in a nationwide broadcast address monitored in India that the predawn coup Friday was carried out because Shiek Mujib had permitted corruption and did not solve the problems of Bangladesh, one of the world's poorest lands

"There was corruption, nepotism and attempts to concentrate powers on one head," said Ahmed, a former ally of the 55-year-old shiek, said Friday night.

The new administration consists entirely of Mujib's ministers. Pakistan was the first government to recognize the Islamic Republic of Bangladesh, known as East Pakistan until the 1971 civil war that ended with its independence.

Opinion And Comment

What's it all about?

An old, old man in Whittier, Calif... has the right idea about the celebration of America's bicentennial as a nation of free men. Theodore Kuper, a 90-year-old retired lawyer who was a volunteer aide to President Calvin Coolidge at the time of the sesquicentennial half a century ago, believes there should be much more to such things than "fireworks and picnics and

So Kuper is engaged, through lecturing and writing, on what he calls "a crusade against ignorance." His guiding thought is that on this occasion Americans should be reflecting on the qualities and precepts which underlie the greatness of their country.

Kuper's lodestar is Thomas Jefferson. He regards the author of the Declaration of Independence, and our third president, as the man who laid the "cornerstone of our American democracy.

His choice is a good one. As we near the 200th anniversary of the signing of that Declaration we can do no better than to say over again those words Jefferson set down: "We hold these truths to be selfevident - that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." This, when you get down to the heart of the matter, is what the bicentennial is

Gambling probers hear of success

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) - Gov. Mike O'Callaghan said today legalized casino gambling, along with other wagering, has proved successful in Nevada because of the state's unique geographical and historical charac-

O'Callaghan told the National Gambling Commission that legalized gambling, as conducted in Nevada, might not be successful in any of the other 49 states, especially those with large urban populations.

He said he did not believe there would be any significant impact on Nevada's gaming industry should another state legalize casino gambling although he conceded that legalization on the West Coast, particularly in California, would tend to pose greater competition.

"However, we still feel Nevada's near 45-year experience in operating and regulating gaming, combined with the billion-dollar plus capital investment in our current industry, will help keep Nevada growing in the face of any competition," the governor said.

"Geographically, Nevada's major centers of both its population and its gaming industry have always existed in a kind of oasis of the western United States," he said. He noted the Las Vegas area contains 50 per cent of the state population and accounted for nearly three-fourth's of the gaming industry's $1-billion gross revenues last

Historically, he said, Nevada's population has always been very small with less than 575,000 residents in the entire state today.

O'Callaghan said those characteristics have been "advantageous to Nevada's successful experience with legalized gambling" in encouraging the development of the tourist industry.

DEAR ABBY: A friend who recently moved to this city phoned me early one Sunday morning to say that he was in agony and asked if I knew a dentist who could see him immediately.

I reached my dentist, who agreed to see my friend at once.

Later that day, my friend phoned to thank me and tell me what a marvelous job my dentist had done in putting him out of his misery. (He had had an abscessed tooth which required dental Six months later, my dentist called to

I was shocked because my friend is well off financially, and I certainly never took him for a deadbeat.

I am terribly embarrassed and don't know what to do. Should I call my friend and ask him to please pay the dentist? Or should I pay him myself? The bill is $90 for three visits. IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: You are not responsible for your friend's debts, but since you were the middleman, urge your friend to pay the dentist at once. It might embarrass him into paying up.

DEAR ABBY: My uncle and I have a disagreement. Recently a good friend of mine came home after being in the service for a long time. I was so happy to see him that I hugged him hard.

My uncle saw this and later told me that it was "disgusting" for two men to hug each other. He said "real" men do not show any outward affection for another man.

Abby, I consider myself a "real" man, and I still don't see anything wrong with what I did. I am 20 and my friend is 21. Do you think we acted unmanly"?

DEAR DOUBTFUL: No! A "real"

man feels sufficiently sure of his own masculinity to hug another man-and even kiss him if he feels like it, without fear of what others might think.

Is that the customary procedure at the better restaurants? We've never run into that before. PREPLEXED DEAR PERPLEXED: The waiter

Farm population still declining

WASHINGTON (AP) - Roughly 16 to 20 per cent of the U.S. farm population disappeared today

As "persons residing on farms," that is. And only as far as census statisticians are concerned.

Agriculture Department spokesman said Tuesday that USDA and the Bureau of the Census have agreed, as long expected and unsuccessfully broached two years ago, to now define as a farm only farms that produce $1,000 or more a year in cash

Officials said that decision chops off about one-half of one per cent of the dollars in cash receipts that make up U.S. farm income - but will siginificantly increase on paper the average farm income.

The background paper added that the definition change will not adversely affect the "very small producers, whose crops still will be counted by production statisticians. "They will not ose eligibility in federal programs or be adversely affected in any other

The available statistics show that the number of farms with less than $2,500 in annual sales dropped from 1.85 million in 1960 to 707,000 last year and their sales fell from 5.8 per cent of the U.S. total to 0.9 per cent. They comprised 46.6 per cent of the total farms 15 years ago and 25 per cent last year.

By contrast farms with $100,-000 in annual sales represented 0.6 per cent of the total number in 1960 and 17.3 per cent of the cash receipts.

Farmers to take brunt of food price situation?

County Extension Agent, Agriculture released last Monday has again brought forth discussion on how food prices will be affected by total U.S. crop supplies, exports, and foreign crop prospects. Right now it appears that farmers again will have to take the brunt of the situation to "keep food prices low the facts.' But we think some of the facts are important to set the situation in the proper perspective. While digging for some of these facts I came across the following bit of information put together by R. Richard Howard, extension radio editor, and I share it here with you.

Agricultural Economists at Ohio State University say that we sold Russia very little grain last year, but U.S. consumer food prices increased 14.5 per cent — and more than threefourths of that increase took place after the food left the farm. That's where to look for the explanation of higher food

American agriculture has a tremendous productive capacity. Farmers are going to raise about one billion 400 million bushels more wheat in this country this year than U.S. consumers can use, so we have to export it. Thus far we have sold the Soviet Union about 125 million bushels out of this year's crop — or less than 10 per cent of what we have available to export (about 30 million bushels will be out of next year's crop). This is much less than we sold India last year. So, to blame the sale to Russia for an increase in food prices is being a bit

The average price of wheat in Kansas City plunged $1.70 per bushel from last October to this June, yet this did not reduce the price of bread. Now that average wheat prices in July have Mahan Building at 6 p.m. starting with recovered about 35 cents of that $1.70 The August 1, crop report which was drop, it doesn't make sense to say that this is going to increase bread prices.

And as further evidence, this will be a year for wheat stock rebuilding, the USDA outlook and situation Board reports. Even with some increase in domestic use and assuming that exports reach the high end of projections, total use of U.S. wheat in 1975-76 likely It's often said 'don't confuse me with will fall short of the 2.2 billion bushels crop that is being harvested. The estimated crop as of July 1 is a recordshattering 22 per cent larger than last year's harvest.

> SOUTHWEST Ohio pork producers have until next Tuesday, August 19, to make reservations for the September 6-10 pork tour. The tour route leads through five Corn Belt states to view mid-west crop conditions. Main tour stops will include the Austin Barrow Show, Austin, Minnesota; Purdue University swine facilities; Leo Bernhard farm, Elmwood, Illinois producing 10,000 hogs per year and all his own corn; Hormel Packing Plant, Hormel Research Farm, with emphasis on their swine buildings; The Chicago Board of Trade and the Mercantile Exchange.

Cost per person for the bus tour is $115 which includes transportation, four nights lodging, and two prepaid meals. Reservation should be made with Dave Gerber, Area Extension Agent, Swine Industry, 317 S. Fayette St., Washington C.H.

DR. WALLY BARR, Extension Economist, at Ohio State University, and John Bricker, manager feeder cattle department at Producers Livestock Association, will be on hand Wednesday, September 3 for the Washington C.H. area beef outlook meeting. The event will be held in a charcoil broiled steak dinner.

Barr and Bricker will gaze into the crystal ball of the beef industry and discuss their predictions for the person is $5.

situation got really tight, the United States could increase its crop land nearly 75 per cent by plowing up pastures and wiping out forests, says the Agriculture Department.

But that potential crop-producing land, some 266 million acres, would be expensive to convert and farmers would need incentives such as high commodity prices or other guarantees before undertaking the huge investments.

department's Economic Research Service says, however, that "it is possible" to cultivate the additional land if a massive expansion in crop output is needed. The analysis is in a new report, "Cropland for Today and Tomorrow," published by the agency.

There are about 2.3 billion acres of land in the United States. About 1.1 billion acres are in farms. The remainder includes sites for cities, roads, public facilities and holdings by state and federal governments.

For about a decade, from the early 1960s to the early 1970s, the amount of land used for crops ranged between 331 million and 340 million acres, well below the record of 387 million used in 1949, the report said.

But since huge markets developed in recent years, including world export demands, more land has been put back into crop use so that now about 361

The potential of adding 266 million acres to the crop area includes about 26 million acres in the northern plains and 46 million in the southern plains, plus some in the plains portion of the mountain states, the report said.

"While most of this could be used for production of wheat and other crops on a dry land basis (without irrigation), yields are generally low, up to half of the land must be fallowed (idled) each year, there are periodic crop failures due to drought, and erosion is a continuing problem," the report said.

The report was written by H. Thomas Frey, a geographer, and Robert C. Otte, an agricultural economist, of the Economic Research Service's natural resource economics division.

Another 34 million acres of potential is in the Mississippi Delta area, the southeast and in the Appalachian region, the report said. But much of that land requires drainage and clearing of trees, scrub growth and other vegetation.

Arizona residents know heat's meaning

By MAX JENNINGS Associated Press Writer

GILA BEND, Ariz. (AP) - The rest of the country may complain about heat waves off and on, but people in the Arizona desert know what hot weather really means.

Somewhere in Arizona, almost every day in the summer, the nation's highest temperature will be recorded.

And the desert is no place to be unless you know how to cope with the eggfrying temperatures.

The temperature recently hit 120 degrees in this western Arizona town of 2,000 at the edge of the Mohave Desert. Gila Bend has the dubious distinction of often being the hottest spot in the

Mrs. Paul Drudge helps her husband and son run a refrigeration shop here. Although business is booming these days, she confesses she has not adjusted to the summers.

"They put a thermometer on the ground the other day and it registered 150 degrees in the sun," she says. When she remains outside for very long, Mrs. Drudge says, "I get heat exhaustion and I get sick.

Despite the heat, residents here and elsewhere in a desert which spans western Arizona have developed ways

Specialty stores sell sun screens for home and car windows, and air conditioner repairmen race about in radio trucks, responding to refrigeration unit breakdowns like ambulance drivers.

Of course, people lived through summer in Arizona before the advent of pools and air conditioning.

Old missile sites have little use

EGYPT, Wash. (AP) McCaffery owns a dinosaur of the missile age.

McCaffery, a wheat farmer, owns an Atlas missile site, one of nine built in eastern Washington in the early 1960s and abandoned almost before the paint had dried.

The sites were built for $150 million in an effort to help convince the Soviet Union not to fight a nuclear war. McCaffery's 22-acre area cost between $13 million and $20 million to build and

He bought it in 1967 for just under $5,700.

"I don't know what to do with it," said McCaffrey. "My idea is to turn it into a casino.

The nine sites are like small, underground cities, each capable of withstanding anything other than a direct nuclear hit. They were built as part of the Atlas network and surrounded Fairchild Air Force Base just west of Spokane.

Each site was in operation 24 hours a day, with a crew of 12 always ready to fire the device. The Atlas rocket, fueled

Reds rip fading Pirates, 8-3

The Bucs lost Friday night for the fourth time in a row and the ninth time in the last 10 games. They fell 8-3 to the Cincinnati Reds, the team they probably would meet in the playoffs. During the game Pirates pitcher Dock Ellis apparently refused to warm up in the bullpen, reportedly for the second straight night. Ellis reportedly left the bench abruptly when Manager Danny Murtaugh approached to discuss the matter.

Neither would comment on the incident but observers could sense trouble. One observer was Cincinnati's Fred Norman, the left-hander who cruised to his sixth straight victory at the expense of the National League East leaders.

'Those guys are struggling,' said Norman, who contributed a basesloaded single to the Reds' six-run first inning. "I was amazed not to see the Pirates swing the bat. They were taking a lot of pitches. Elsewhere in the NL Friday night, the Cardinals swept Atlanta 4-1 and 2-1 in a twi-night doubleheader; San Francisco beat New York 6-4 in the opener, then dropped the nightcap of the twinbill 9-4; Montreal downed Los Angeles 8-4, and Houston topped Chicago 4-1.

Soap Box Derby held

AKRON, Ohio (AP)-Soap Box Derby General Manager Ronald Baker has hopes that a new sponsor and a $49.95 kit racer will save the national gravity race from rolling into oblivion.

While 100 contestants were preparing to line up for today's 48th running of the All-American Soap Box Derby, Baker was trying to line up a national sponsor to rescue the derby from the starvation budget it has been on the last two years.

Baker told local directors at a meeting Friday "this program may not exist past this year," if something isn't done to expand interest and attract a national sponsor

AP Sports Writer "Everybody's been hustling," Ralph Houk said. "There's no dissension, no morale problem. Nobody's bawling anybody else out. A manager can't ask for anything more.

Oh, yeah, Ralph? How's about a victory?

Houk and his Detroit Tigers could be excused if they replied: "What's a victory?" After all, going 19 games without one might tend to dull the senses a bit.

With Friday night's 8-0 shellacking by the California Angels, Detroit crept within one game of the American League mark for this kind of futility. This record-set in 1906 by Boston and matched twice by the old Philadelphia Athletics-is the kind of record any team would be happy to do without.

Dins Skipper wins

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP)—Dins Skipper slogged through the mud to an easy two-length victory to win the $3,000 featured pace mile at Latonia Friday night in 2:07.4-5.

It was his fifth straight victory and the winner paid $2.80, $2.40 and $2.80. F.D. Adios placed, $7 and $2.80 and who completed about 40 per cent of his passes in the Bengals' earlier preseason losses to Washington and

"Yes, I would be worried if I wasn't throwing the ball well in practice," he continued. "It was just that I was aiming it a little, maybe I was just a little nervous and maybe I was just trying to do well in the beginning.

On Cincinnati's first series, Anderson marched the Bengals from their 34 to the Buffalo 13 and then hit veteran wide receiver Charlie Joiner with a touchdown pass. After the Bills came back to tie the score, on a nine-yard TD aerial from Joe Ferguson to Reuben Gant, Anderson connected with Joiner on a 40-yard scoring pass.

For Coach Lou Saban of the Bills, it was "an interesting game for me.

'We got some answers to some very difficult questions," he said.

'It was a disappointing effort as far as the defense was concerned. I've got to find some help soon, but I can't be impatient for the simple reason I can't afford to make a mistake.'

Buffalo running-back O.J. Simpson. held to 18 yards for the second successive time in preseason play did not appear downhearted.

'I'm right on," he said, "I don't feel I'm missing anything.

Simpson, carried the ball only five times, said that in preseason games, "you tend to work on things you need to

"Like we have certain bread and butter plays that we know will work, like our off tackle play. I run that all the time during the regular season, but I didn't run it once tonight. We've got the personnel to win the Super Bowl, that's for sure, and when we get Tony Greene back we can do it.'

NCAA says cost curbs have worked

CHICAGO (AP) - The executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association says a special cost-cutting convention has saved college sports programs more than $15 million and rejects charges that the NCAA was attempting to end conference and institutional autonomy.

"I'm just making a barnyard guess, but I'd say Divisions I and II saved in excess of $15 million just by the cuts in the scholarships and reductions in the size of coaching staffs," Walter Byers said Friday at the end of a two-day business session attended by more than 800 delegates. It was the second special convention in NCAA history.

But he admitted that a number of new regulations-particularly the one chopping total football scholarships at Davision I schools from 105 to 95 would create better balance by making more high school athletes available to more colleges.

And he predicted that "some sort of reorganization" beyond the three divisions into which the NCAA divided two years ago "will eventually take place," perhaps with the major powers forming a super conference.

Their first child was due Friday. Green, displaying a notable lack of expectant-father jitters, blazed over the 6,598-yard Wethersfield Country Club course in six-under-par 65 and, at 131, was 11 under par and tied with the veteran Bies for the top spot halfway through this chase for a $40,000 first

"It was a good round, much better than yesterday," said Green, who won four titles and more than $200,000 last season but fell into a deep slump this year. "I hit my irons so close to the hole I thought I was Johnny Miller for a while. I scared myself.

Preventing Post-Operative Problems

New methods of increasing the safety of surgery and the safety of anesthesia are constantly being reported from hospitals all over the world.

The prevention of postoperative complications is one of the goals of these studies.

Two of the complications after surgery are now being reduced by a special type of electrical stimulation in the area of the surgical wound.

Dr. Alan C. Hymes, of the Methodist Hospital in Minneapolis, believes that this type of gentle electrical stimulation "reduces pain and allows people to relax."

The added benefits are that lung and intestinal complications are markedly reduced.

The electrical stimulation method has been tried before for the relief of pain. Now, it may have wide application for use in the post-operative period.

Ultrasonic vibrations are being used to detect heart defects in premature infants.

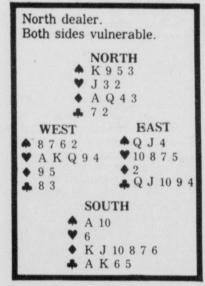

At the Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena, Calif., Dr. L. Stephen Gordon and his associates are using this special technique to distinguish between the various kinds of heart malformations.

This method adds to the more exact diagnosis which can be established at the time of birth.

Bob Snyder and Mrs. Peggy Malek showed Tuesday that bridge is no game for the timid. Slams popped up regularly in the east-west hands, and this pair reached far more slams than any other.

Bidding slams well not only requires a good bit of expertise, but also requires healthy amounts of trust in partner and personal courage. for the experts, but it is no Snyder and Mrs. Malek place for the timid and shy.

were the only pair to reach the diamond slam excellent above. Two other pairs failed to reach even a game contract. In spite of holding only 25 points, south accurately judged that the points for his side were well placed and slam offered a good play.

After finding that the opponents possessed most of the points in hearts (which did not bother South at all) and that partner held some values in spades as well as diamonds, South checked for aces and bid the cold slam.

The key to the slam is recognizing that if North holds enough points to bid freely twice, and the opponents hold enough hearts to bid to the three level, North will likely cover South's club losers either with points in clubs, or more likely with spades discards.

If North holds only four spades - as was the case the diamond support must be quite good, leaving very little room for North to hold clubs. As predicted by South, North provided the two club ruffs necessary to make the con-

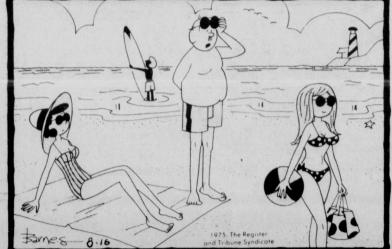

In addition to this slam, the pair bid another hand to six diamonds where only one other pair found the slam. It, too, was unbeatable.

Seven full tables played Tuesday at the Washington Inn. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wright, who sat north-south, topped all comers with a score of 105. Finishing second north-south were Mr. and Mrs. Craig Vandemark, who had 93.

First place east-west went to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stark who tallied 91. Bill Horne and George Malek finished second with 90. Last week's leader in the participation competition, Mrs. Charles Fabb, faltered Tuesday, and the strong finish by Mrs. Vandemark carried her into first place. Mrs. Vandemark has 113 points, Mrs. Fabb 106.

The Island of Jersey in the English Channel is proud of the more than 50 species of birds which fly over and around this little British protectorate. Four of the endangered species are depicted on a new issue of stamps by Jersey. Topical collectors, of course, will be looking for this set.

The 4 pence shows the Common Tern, which is not as common as its name suggests. This graceful bird has semitransparent wings and hovers in flight before diving for fish.

The 5 pence illustrates the Storm Petrel which is usually seen alone following sea-going craft. They are difficult to find and study.

The 8 pence features the Brent Goose which flies down after breeding on the Arctic shores of the Soviet Union and Greenland to winter on Jersey's milder coast. The Brent is the smallest and darkest of the European "black" geese.

The 25 pence pictures the Shag, a member of the cormorant family with a distinctive crest. Familiar to local Jersey people is the Shag's loud and rasping croak while at its nesting on the north coast cliffs.

Stamp collectors and U.S. Bicentennial enthusiasts can compete for 10 prizes in the American First Day Cover Society's "First-Day Guessing Contest." The object of the contest is to guess the number of first-day cancellations applied to covers bearing one or more of the Military Services Bicentennial block of four stamps issued in Washington on July 4.

Each contestant should write his or her guess on a postal card with name and address, then mail the card to AFDCS Contest, 12 School St., Plymouth, N.H. 03264. All entries must be received by Aug.

First prize will be an official presentation album for the Military Services stamps donated by the U.S. Postal Service. Contestants with the next nine closest guesses will be awarded Bicentennial first-day covers.

The Republic of China (Taiwan) has issued four new stamps featuring famous Chinese folk tales. This new set is part of the promotional effort on behalf of the Chinese Cultural Renaissance Campaign, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The movement was initiated in 1965 on the centennial of the birth of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, father of the Chinese Republic. Each stamp in the folk tale series highlights one of the famous Chinese stories reflecting the spirit of Chinese culture. The stamps will be available soon at your local dealer.

Two widely separated lands have issued stamps honoring the 14th Boy Scout Jamboree being held in Norway this summer. Grenada, in the Caribbean, has released seven stamps and a souvenir sheet showing scouts at work. All of the designs bear the official Boy Scout emblem. The Maldives, in the Indian Ocean, pay tribute to the Jamboree with a three value overprint. The words "14th Boy Scout Jamboree, July 29 - August 7, 1975" are inscribed on the three values issued by the Maldives for its 1975 Boy Scout issue.

Village of Blue Ball seeks sphere long since vanished

BLUE BALL, Ohio (AP)— Residents of this unincorporated crossroads community are rummaging through nuals looking for a piece of their past.

They are seeking clues to the blue insurance and trash hauling in addition ball that gave the town its name and which has since vanished from public

It is known that a wood globe hung from a post in front of the Blue Ball in in 1820. That crude, but adequate advertisement for the popular coach stop, gave way in time to a ball made of tin.

Eventually however, the "Old Brick" as the inn was called was torn down, although the site is still a haven for travelers seeking refreshments. Today, motorists can pull their cars under the neon lights of the Blue Ball Dairy Bar, which has become sort of an institution in itself.

When the tavern closed, the ball dangled for awhile from a pole across the street, where it was a choice target for youthful pranks.

Steel orders up sharply

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)— Armco Steel Corp., the nation's fifth largest producer, reported a sharp increase in orders from customers anticipating a steel price hike Oct. 1.

The firm Friday ordered 182 furloughed steel workers to report back next week

"The happy news is tempered by the fact that the spurt of activity is prompted primarily by customers trying to get as much of their steel requirements delivered before what appears will be another possible price increased by most domestic steel makers on Oct. 1," said Middletown Works Manager Carl Fiora.

The firm laid off 1,000 steel workers here in March. Only 430 still remain off, Fiora said.

Armco last week announced then revoked an average nine per cent hike on carbon steel products.

> At this point I have not seen any justice. The only justice I received came from those 12 people sitting up in the jury box," the 21-year-old black woman said.

A jury of six whites and six blacks deliberated one hour and 18 minutes Friday before finding her innocent of second degree murder in the ice pick stabbing of a 62-year-old jailer.

Miss Little admitted stabbing Clarence Alligood, but she claimed she did so after he forced her to perform oral sex. The state argued she killed him in an escape plot.

Jury foreman Mark Nielsen smiled slightly as he stood and announced, "We find the defendant, Joan Little, not

There were brief tears from Miss Little, then she smiled, hugged her attorneys and left the courtroom with barely an acknowledgement to the cheers of supporters gathered outside.

Civil rights groups and feminist organizations had taken up the case in support of Miss Little. The National Organization for Women commented after the verdict, "NOW commends her fortitude and perseverence in this test case which certainly benefits all

Man tries to buy old couch, winds up with entire hotel

"Rick" Alexander had his eye on an antique, velvet-covered couch when he went to an auction, but he ended up with a hotel.

Alexander said that when he went to an auction of the old Union Hotel and its furnishings he thought the couch might be something his bride-to-be, Ann Sweet of Hardy, Neb., would like.

"I thought I had it (the couch) bought for $2, but the guy wanted $5 for it, and I thought it was too much money, so I didn't buy it," the 21-year-old University of Nebraska senior recalled

But he said he decided to hang around the recent auction anyway, and

SUPERIOR, Neb. (AP) — Fredrick the bidding on the hotel itself started a short time later, at $15,000.

Alexander said no one was interested at that price, and openers eventually fell to $2,500.

Alexander then chimed in with a bid of $2,600. A few rounds later, he was proclaimed the hotel's new owner for the price of $3,000.

He also got the couch he wanted, along with all of the other furnishings left in the building, a landmark here since 1880

'I didn't even really intend to buy the stupid thing, then after I bought it it kind of hit me," said Alexander.

"I'm going to keep it for a couple of years and see what happens from Five persons now rent rooms, but there are a total of 22 rentable rooms which go for $3.50 per night, $15 per week or $50 per month. Alexander said he's thinking about raising the nightly charge to $4.

The retiring owner of the Union, Maurice Kilgore, claims the hotel was the first west of the Mississippi River to offer travelers private lavatories in their own rooms.

Alexander said it looks like "the original ones" are still there.

He said he has already received several offers from people wanting to buy the 95-year-old structure, including Kilgore, who apparently had second thoughts about the money he got from the sale.

In addition, Alexander said a local antique dealer has told him that the furniture in the hotel's upstairs rooms is worth more than what he paid for the whole place.

Kissinger ready for new trip

Mideast accord said near

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger are meeting here amid reports that an Israeli-Egyptian interim accord is near and another Kissinger shuttle mission is imminent.

Kissinger, accompanied by his wife, Nancy, flew from Washington Friday night to brief the President today on latest Mideast developments.

Asked by newsmen on his arrival about reports from Israel and Egypt that he would resume shuttle diplomacy next week, Kissinger replied:

"We have been making progress during a week of intensive negotiations, but we haven't really settled it finely yet I don't want to characterize it as a breakthrough.

Kissinger said he and Ford would 'review the status of the negotiations.... As you know, the Israeli cabinet is going to meet on Sunday, and there are a number of other things that need discussions.'

White House aides said the secretary hoped to spend much of the weekend relaxing. The Kissingers are staying in a private residence near the chaletstyle home that the Fords are renting.

As Ford neared the halfway point of his two-week working vacation, he planned to play golf for the sixth straight day today.

Kissinger has said he would resume his Mideast shuttle diplomacy only when he was 90 per cent sure of concluding the accord.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said Friday in Tel Aviv he "would not be surprised" if Kissinger came to the Middle East before the end of next week to work out final details

Allon said an agreement with Egypt is closer "than any time in the past" but that several problems still require clarification.

Cairo's semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram reported that Kissinger would fly to Israel on Wednesday and then go to the Egyptian resort city of Alexandria on Friday to meet with President Anwar Sadat. After completing his Israeli-Egyptian mission, the secretary will stop in Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia, Al Ahram said.

Allon said that if American personnel were sent to the Middle East as part of a disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt, the personnel would be civilian and not military.

'This is not a military presence, but a civilian presence with more political than military meaning," he said in a television interview.

The idea of such a direct U.S. presence is considered a key to Israeli willingness to abandon the strategic Mitla and Gidi passes on the Sinai peninsula. The Americans would be

New lottery director quits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Lottery lost its second director in as many weeks Friday when the former chief of the Ohio Highway Patrol abruptly resigned, citing what he called a lack of authority to do his job.

Col. Robert M. Chiaramonte announced his resignation at a Statehouse news conference late Friday afternoon, citing his lack of authority to hire and fire lottery staffers. He said he had informed Gov. James A. Rhodes of the decision only minutes earlier.

Lottery commission members said they were shocked by the resignation and uniformly praised Chiaramonte as a fine administrator. But, they said they saw no need to give the director more authority.

The resigned lottery chief said it took no more than four or five days to see that he couldn't do the job he thought necessary without more authority. He said he thought he had the authority when he accepted the position.

"I wasn't going to sit there like an onion head and draw my salary," he told reporters.

A day before his resignation, commissioners rejected Chiaramonte's request that he be given the authority to employ and terminate workers.

In Cleveland, lottery commission Chairman David F. Leahy said he was shocked by Chiaramonte's resignation. "I respect him very much," Leahy what we need in the lottery. Leahy said he had discussed the hiring situation with Chiaramonte and "Unofficially, I offered him every cooperation and even made the statement that, 'Bob, you can have anything you want. I'll certainly work with you 100 per cent and the rest of the commissioners will too'. Chiaramonte, however, described himself as "the only director in state government without the power to hire and fire.

The controversy erupted some days ago in a confrontation between the commission and Robert S. Malaga, appointed to the job by Rhodes after the Republican Statehouse victory last November. The commission dominated by Democrats appointed by former Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Malaga resigned Aug. 8 after a yelling session with the commission. Focus of the Malaga fight was his

It's not a well-traveled five spot. It's the black, brown and white button that Honest Abe's campaign workers were pinning on lapels back in his 1860 drive for the White House.

'It'll cost you $35," says Frank Enten of Bethesda, Md. "If it were in real good condition, I could get, maybe, a hundred and a quarter for it.'

Enten, 40, has 1,000 buttons in his personal collection and thousands more for sale. An insurance broker by vocation, he peddles buttons from a pushcart on weekends in Washington.

His stock includes an Alf Landon for $9, a William McKinley for $12, and an old Bull Moose pin left over from 1912 for $8.50. A complete Robert A. Taft campaign kit from the 1952 GOP National Convention goes for $12, but Enten will let go of a maroon necktie bearing the white, painted likeness of "Mr. Republican" for $5.

Enten's own collection goes heavy on buttons from the campaigns of Woodrow Wilson, Franklin D Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

"I guess I specialize in candidates who interest me," he said while hawking his goods at a Chicago convention of the Young Americans for Freedom. "I had a great Barry Goldwater collection, but the thing got completely out of hand and I had to sell

Enten says he gets the buttons by scouring flea markets and antique stores and trading with other collectors, some of whom belong to the 3,000member American Political Items Collectors

Enten says he became interested in political memorabilia in 1960 when he bought several printed copies of John F. Kennedy's inaugural address. He hung onto them for a while and then sold them to collectors at a profit.

"It just grew from there," he said. Enten also manufactures buttons with contemporary political slogans and sells those, too. One that was popular with the Young Americans for Freedom, most of whom are followers of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, says: "Ford is an Edsel."

Recommendation for membership in the youth choir is made by the students' high school choir directors and director of the youth choir. The choir, in past years, has had nearly 500 members.

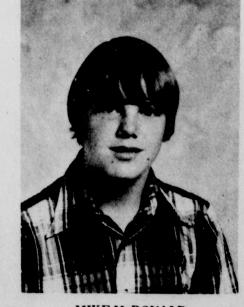

Each member has the opportunity the following summer to tour Europe as 'America's Goodwill Ambassadors."

Mass transit to receive boost

CINCINNATI (AP)-U.S. Secretary Friday, hammered at the need to of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr. said he is preparing a controversial policy statement to reverse the nation's transportation policy emphasis on roads for autos and replace it with mass transit.

Coleman said Friday he will publish his views on the subject Sept. 1 in the form of a policy statement.

Coleman told a business luncheon the statement will be controversial and probably contain mistakes, but "I urge you to get involved in the debate" it will generate.

Coleman appeared to celebrate the second anniversary of Cincinnati's purchase of its privately owned transit system. Coleman, 55, of Philadelphia, acted as attorney for the city in the purchase before going to Washington.

upgrade and integrate railroad, airline, bus and urban mass transit systems and to decrease the use of cars.

Coleman said his plan would reverse the nation's current transportation program to provide an interstate highway network for cars and trucks. He said the 20-year-old national program was based on the availability of cheap gasoline which no longer exists.

"The only real, long-range solution for transportation lies in development of a comprehensive, integrated and well-planned national transportation network, one which makes the best and most efficient use of each mode, and, in which each mode is strong, healthy and capable of fulfilling its role in the total system.'

Coleman said his department so far Coleman, at several appearances has taken five steps toward this end:

the Federal Highway Act of 1975 sent to Congress; the National Mass Transportation Act of 1974; the Rail program now underway.

Coleman also stumped for President Ford's plan to deregulate controls on oil prices to spur domestic develop-

"The national action plan is clear," Coleman said. "We must discourage excessive use of our cars. Our nation's cities must emulate the commitment of Cincinnati and Atlanta and promote public transportation. We must conserve our energy resources and decrease our dependence on the

There's no question about it, our president of the Fertilizer Institute.

Wheeler pointed to these other causes:

Not only did buyers in many overseas-nations over-order this year in the wake of almost two years of supply shortages and distribution problems, but "the price is so high . . . that they buy it and then their farmers just wouldn't use it. They just flat bowed their necks.'

The operation against the Klan and other so-called "white hate groups" such as the National States Rights party and the American Nazi party, was described in 125 pages of FBI files turned over Friday to reporters who petitioned for them under the Freedom of Information Act nine months ago.

The files provided the first public glimpse of the counterintelligence program, called Cointelpro by the FBI, against white hate groups. The FBI previously was forced to disclose

Prison guard firings upheld

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The firing of 21 employes of Southern Ohio Correctional Facility at Lucasville has been upheld by the State Personnel Board of Review.

Seven other employees were reinstated, and the firings of 26 more were reduced to 90-day suspensions. The rulings involved employes dismissed as the result of a strike at the penitentiary May 12-28.

The board said it generally upheld firings of persons who engaged in picketing that prevented others from entering; handed suspensions to those who could have entered but didn't and reinstated those who were threatened or had physical disabilities that would have kept them off the job regardless of the strike.

Board members Warren S. Earhart and Frank E. Avren handed down the decisions. Member James E. Hughel abstained from voting.

Portuguese riots feared

LISBON, Portugal (AP) - The Communists today take their crusade to retain power into northern Portugal, the heartland of recent anti-Communist violence.

Communist party leader Alvaro Cunhal planned to speak at a rally this evening in Alcobaca, 60 miles north of Lisbon, where angry mobs wrecked a Communist party office two weeks ago.

The rally was planned as part of Cunhal's effort to relly support against what he calls "a wave of Fascist violence." More than 40 Communist headquarters have been wrecked and four persons have been killed in anti-Communist attacks over the past

Non-Communist political parties, much of the armed forces and the Roman Catholic church have demanded removal of Communist-

Dickerson said Malaga "made a tremendous error in judgment going before the commission and asking resignation of myself and two others without a shred of evidence.

Chan Cochran, Rhodes' ministrative assistant, said of the Chiaramonte resignation, "We don't expect him to put up with an intolerable situation. We're going to find a permanent solution to clean up that lottery situation up in Cleveland.

Cochran said the loss of two lottery chairmen indicates Rhodes "may have to consider taking other steps, such as legislation.

Gov. Rhodes' office did not indicate any immediate replacement for Chiaramonte had been lined up.

Dickerson said he also was shocked by Chiaramonte's resignation. "The commission pledged its total support to Mr. Chiaramonte. I pledged personal support to Mr. Chiaramonte. I'm very disappointed.

He's a high-type guy," Dickerson said. "He did make one request of the commission at yesterday's commission meeting, that he be given the right to hire and fire. But, the commission could not help him out because of state

Mrs. Jeannine Takacs, a Democratic member of the commission, echoed Dickerson's regret over Chiaramonte's resignation.

"We really looked forward to working with him because of his background and integrity, his compassion and everything," she said. But, Mrs. Takacs took a cautious stand on any change in the law. "I don't know if I would like to see the law changed," she said. "The law probably was written at the time to maybe keep it neutral so it would not fluctuations of oil politics."

The result of these trends has been a sharp drop in the price in the last 60 to 90 days, Wheeler said.

Nitrogen-based mixes should begin to move again after a "nice gentle rain this fall" hits the winter wheat fields ready for sowing, he said

But how tight the supply of nitrogen will be - and where the price will be when it comes time to put it down on cornfields next spring depends on the natural gas supply from which it is derived.

Another possible hitch could develop in the transportation sector. Fertilizer firms use the same hopper cars to move their product in bulk as the grain traders use to ship wheat and corn to ports by rail. The higher the export demand, the fewer hoppers are

For phosphates and potash this fall and next year, "I don't see any problem at all," Wheeler said. Phosphate prices at the mine have dropped 25 per cent at the mine since spring planting, with demand down and stocks up, he said.

The foreign market, however, probably won't crack until some time next year, because of the credit crunch on such nations as India and embargoes other countries have placed on fertilizer imports.

Agriculture Department economist John Gale says that 70 per cent of the fertilizer moves in the first half of the year, not much is sold at this time of year and the indications are that consumption is off only two to five per

But USDA's Crop Reporting Board said on July 31 that, from mid-1974 through this May, consumption was off 14 per cent for primary nutrients and mixed fertilizers.

The international airport at Dacca remained closed today and normal communication lines to the outside world were down.

Khondakar Mushtaque Ahmed, the new president, said in a nationwide broadcast address monitored in India that the predawn coup Friday was carried out because Shiek Mujib had permitted corruption and did not solve the problems of Bangladesh, one of the world's poorest lands.

"There was corruption, nepotism and attempts to concentrate powers on one head," said Ahmed, a former ally of the 55-year-old shiek, said Friday night.

The new administration consists entirely of Mujib's ministers.

Acting Washington C.H. city manager Ralph L. Cook has scheduled a special meeting of Washington C.H. City Council for 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in the City Office Building.

Three emergency ordinances, which were tabled at Council's regular semimonthly session last Wednesday, will be considered during the special session.

Cook said the ordinances deal with the renewal for a one-year period a $42,000 street resurfacing note which becomes due Sept. 9; legislation to reduce the speed limit to 15 miles per hour on Oakland Avenue between Millikan Avenue and N. North Street in the vicinity of the Washington Park

Opinion And Comment

What's it all about?

An old, old man in Whittier, Calif... has the right idea about the celebration of America's bicentennial as a nation of free men. Theodore Kuper, a 90-year-old retired lawyer who was a volunteer aide to President Calvin Coolidge at the time of the sesquicentennial half a century ago, believes there should be much more to such things than "fireworks and picnics and jubilees.

So Kuper is engaged, through lecturing and writing, on what he calls "a crusade against ignorance." His guiding thought is that on this occasion Americans should be reflecting on the qualities and precepts which underlie the greatness of their country.

Kuper's lodestar is Thomas Jefferson. He regards the author of the Declaration of Independence, and our third president, as the man who laid the "cornerstone of our American democracy.'

His choice is a good one. As we near the 200th anniversary of the signing of that Declaration we can do no better than to say over again those words Jefferson set down: "We hold these truths to be selfevident - that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." This, when you get down to the heart of the matter, is what the bicentennial is

The youngster, who apparently had been dragged over 10 miles of mountainous desert, seemed dazed as she was flown home by helicopter. She had several mosquito bites and had scratches on her face, legs and feet.

Authorities said a 19-year-old Mexican national was booked in San Diego County Jail for investigation of kidnaping and burglary. Bail was set at $100,000 for the youth, Alberto Varon Ibarra.

The hero was Doug Knoell, a border patrolman for five years who was out looking for illegal aliens early Thursday when his car searchlight fell on a footprint.

Gambling probers hear of success

By TOM SEPPY

Associated Press Writer CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) - Gov.

Mike O'Callaghan said today legalized casino gambling, along with other wagering, has proved successful in Nevada because of the state's unique geographical and historical characteristics.

O'Callaghan told the National Gambling Commission that legalized gambling, as conducted in Nevada, might not be successful in any of the other 49 states, especially those with large urban populations.

He said he did not believe there would be any significant impact on Nevada's gaming industry should another state legalize casino gambling although he conceded that legalization on the West Coast, particularly in California, would tend to pose greater competition.

"However, we still feel Nevada's near 45-year experience in operating and regulating gaming, combined with the billion-dollar plus capital investment in our current industry, will

'Geographically, Nevada's major centers of both its population and its gaming industry have always existed in a kind of oasis of the western United States," he said. He noted the Las Vegas area contains 50 per cent of the state population and accounted for nearly three-fourth's of the gaming industry's $1-billion gross revenues last

Historically, he said, Nevada's population has always been very small with less than 575,000 residents in the entire state today.

O'Callaghan said those characteristics have been "advantageous to Nevada's successful experience with legalized gambling" in encouraging the development of the tourist industry.

'The greatest proportion of our gross gaming revenues (over $1 billion in 1974) are not obtained from our residents, but from tourists visiting Nevada," he said. The available statistics show that the number of farms with less than $2,500 in annual sales dropped from 1.85 million in 1960 to 707,000 last year and their sales fell from 5.8 per cent of the U.S. total to 0.9 per cent. By contrast farms with $100,-000 in annual sales represented 0.6 per cent of the total number in 1960 and 17.3 per cent of the cash receipts.

By last year, those large farms comprised 4.1 per cent of the farm population and took in 47.4 per cent of

Farmers to take brunt of food price situation?

County Extension Agent, Agriculture The August 1, crop report which was released last Monday has again brought forth discussion on how food prices will be affected by total U.S. crop supplies, exports, and foreign crop prospects. Right now it appears that farmers again will have to take the brunt of the situation to "keep food prices low."

It's often said 'don't confuse me with the facts.' But we think some of the facts are important to set the situation in the proper perspective. While digging for some of these facts I came year's harvest. across the following bit of information put together by R. Richard Howard. extension radio editor, and I share it here with you.

Agricultural Economists at Ohio State University say that we sold Russia very little grain last year, but U.S. consumer food prices increased 14.5 per cent — and more than threefourths of that increase took place after the food left the farm. That's where to look for the explanation of higher food

American agriculture has a tremendous productive capacity. Farmers are going to raise about one billion 400 million bushels more wheat in this country this year than U.S. consumers can use, so we have to export it. Thus far we have sold the Soviet Union about 125 million bushels out of this year's crop — or less than 10 per cent of what we have available to export (about 30 million bushels will be out of next year's crop). This is much less than we sold India last year. So, to blame the sale to Russia for an increase in food prices is being a bit

The average price of wheat in Kansas City plunged $1.70 per bushel from last October to this June, yet this did not reduce the price of bread. Now that recovered about 35 cents of that $1.70 drop, it doesn't make sense to say that this is going to increase bread prices.

And as further evidence, this will be a year for wheat stock rebuilding, the USDA outlook and situation Board reports. Even with some increase in domestic use and assuming that exports reach the high end of projections, total use of U.S. wheat in 1975-76 likely will fall short of the 2.2 billion bushels crop that is being harvested. The estimated crop as of July 1 is a recordshattering 22 per cent larger than last

SOUTHWEST Ohio pork producers have until next Tuesday, August 19, to make reservations for the September 6-10 pork tour. The tour route leads through five Corn Belt states to view mid-west crop conditions. Cost per person for the bus tour is $115 which includes transportation, four nights lodging, and two prepaid meals. Reservation should be made with Dave Gerber, Area Extension Agent, Swine Industry, 317 S. Fayette St., Washington C.H.

Drastic farmland proposal disclosed

WASHINGTON (AP) - If the food situation got really tight, the United States could increase its crop land nearly 75 per cent by plowing up pastures and wiping out forests, says the Agriculture Department.

But that potential crop-producing land, some 266 million acres, would be expensive to convert and farmers would need incentives such as high commodity prices or other guarantees before undertaking the huge investments.

The department's Economic Research Service says, however, that "it is possible" to cultivate the additional land if a massive expansion in crop output is needed. The analysis is in a new report, "Cropland for Today and Tomorrow," published by the agency.

There are about 2.3 billion acres of land in the United States. About 1.1 billion acres are in farms. The remainder includes sites for cities, roads, public facilities and holdings by state and federal governments.

For about a decade, from the early 1960s to the early 1970s, the amount of land used for crops ranged between 331 million and 340 million acres, well below the record of 387 million used in 1949, the report said.

But since huge markets developed in recent years, including world export demands, more land has been put back into crop use so that now about 361 million acres are being cultivated.

The potential of adding 266 million acres to the crop area includes about 26 million acres in the northern plains and 46 million in the southern plains, plus some in the plains portion of the mountain states, the report said.

"While most of this could be used for production of wheat and other crops on a dry land basis (without irrigation), yields are generally low, up to half of the land must be fallowed (idled) each year, there are periodic crop failures due to drought, and erosion is a continuing problem," the report said.

The report was written by H. Thomas Frey, a geographer, and Robert C. Otte, an agricultural economist, of the Economic Research Service's natural resource economics division. Another 34 million acres of potential is in the Mississippi Delta area, the southeast and in the Appalachian region, the report said. But much of that land requires drainage and clearing of trees, scrub growth and other vegetation.

Moving tips to save money

Major moving companies will come into homes, pack belongings at the beginning of the move and unpack articles at the destination, but consumers can easily reduce moving costs

According to specialists of the Aero Mayflower Transit Co., dollars can be stretched when you are on a tight budget in moving by packing many of the smaller items yourself.

The proper and most damage-proof moving technique is to wrap each item individually in newsprint and place it in carton with corrugated dividers. Items should not be packed all the way to the top of the carton but have the top two or three inches to fill with generous cushioning.

The moving experts also advise movers to carry all jewelry, money and valuable papers themselves, pack cartons tightly to avoid damages and never pack matches inflammables or explosives, paints or paint thinners.

Other don'ts advised by movers were: don't pack soaps, cleaning compounds, furniture polishes or medicine with food; don't pack kitchen ware, electric appliances or other heavy objects with china and breakables; don't roll draperies on rods or poles, don't pack anything in cartons with lamp shades or heavy articles on top of shoes or hats in cartons; and don't pack pictures between bedding or linens.

Dear friends,

Arizona residents know heat's meaning

By MAX JENNINGS Associated Press Writer

GILA BEND, Ariz. (AP) — The rest of the country may complain about heat waves off and on, but people in the Arizona desert know what hot weather really means.

Somewhere in Arizona, almost every day in the summer, the nation's highest temperature will be recorded.

And the desert is no place to be unless you know how to cope with the eggfrying temperatures.

The temperature recently hit 120 degrees in this western Arizona town of 2,000 at the edge of the Mohave Desert. Gila Bend has the dubious distinction of often being the hottest spot in the

Mrs. Paul Drudge helps her husband and son run a refrigeration shop here. Although business is booming these days, she confesses she has not adjusted to the summers.

"They put a thermometer on the ground the other day and it registered 150 degrees in the sun," she says. When she remains outside for very long, Mrs.

Despite the heat, residents here and elsewhere in a desert which spans western Arizona have developed ways to cope with the heat. Construction workers go to work before dawn and finish well before the temperature peaks in midafternoon. Swimming pool companies install special spray cooling devices to fight the temperatures.

Specialty stores sell sun screens for home and car windows, and air conditioner repairmen race about in radio trucks, responding to refrigeration unit breakdowns like ambulance drivers.

Of course, people lived through summer in Arizona before the advent of pools and air conditioning.

A retired newsman, Ben Avery of Phoenix, is a lifelong Arizonan who remembers children wrapping up in wet sheets before taking their af-ternoon naps. He slept on the front yard of a Phoenix church under the lawn sprinklers. "People going by on their way to church would wake us up." he

Old missile sites have little use

By STEVE WEINER Associated Press Writer

EGYPT, Wash. (AP) McCaffery owns a dinosaur of the missile age.

McCaffery, a wheat farmer, owns an Atlas missile site, one of nine built in eastern Washington in the early 1960s and abandoned almost before the paint had dried.

The sites were built for $150 million in an effort to help convince the Soviet Union not to fight a nuclear war. McCaffery's 22-acre area cost between $13 million and $20 million to build and equip. He bought it in 1967 for just under $5,700.

"I don't know what to do with it," said McCaffrey. "My idea is to turn it into a casino.

The nine sites are like small, underground cities, each capable of withstanding anything other than a direct nuclear hit. They were built as part of the Atlas network and surrounded Fairchild Air Force Base just west of Spokane.

Each site was in operation 24 hours a day, with a crew of 12 always ready to fire the device. The Atlas rocket, fueled by liquid oxygen and a chemical like kerosene, lav on its side inside an enormous, buried "coffin." Around it, also underground, were the steelencased firing control centers and living quarters.

None of the rockets was fired and the Atlas system was superceded by new kinds of missiles. In 1965, the 567th Strategic Missile Squadron was deactivated and the missiles and tracking equipment were removed.

The General Services Administration sold the sites two years later.

The buyers included farmers seeking to reclaim land, and companies hoping for the bargain of a lifetime.

Power has been turned off at most sites. Cows graze, grasshoppers bound through tall grass and debris is everywhere.

McCaffery finds that sheep like to graze inside his Atlas base. He also stores an antique truck inside the base and his combine sits where a missile once lay.

McCaffrey got a Quonset hut with his purchase and provides free storage for boats and campers of his neighbors. But primarily the place is wasted, he

Soap Box Derby held

AKRON, Ohio (AP)-Soap Box Derby General Manager Ronald Baker has hopes that a new sponsor and a $49.95 kit racer will save the national gravity race from rolling into oblivion.

While 100 contestants were preparing to line up for today's 48th running of the All-American Soap Box Derby, Baker was trying to line up a national sponsor to rescue the derby from the starvation budget it has been on the last two years.

Baker told local directors at a meeting Friday "this program may not exist past this year," if something isn't done to expand interest and attract a national sponsor.

But he said he had hopes of getting the sponsor and said one potential sponsor was looking at the derby this weekend.

Baker told the Associated Press after the meeting that he had been talking to representatives of the Keds Shoes Division of UniRoyal.

Angels shell pitiful Tigers

By BRUCE LOWITT

AP Sports Writer "Everybody's been hustling," Ralph Houk said. "There's no dissension, no morale problem. Nobody's bawling anybody else out. A manager can't ask for anything more.' Oh, yeah, Ralph? How's about a victory? Houk and his Detroit Tigers could be excused if they replied: "What's a victory?" After all, going 19 games without one might tend to dull the senses a bit. With Friday night's 8-0 shellacking by the California Angels, Detroit crept within one game of the American League mark for this kind of futility. This record—set in 1906 by Boston and matched twice by the old Philadelphia Athletics-is the kind of record any team would be happy to do without. In the rest of the AL, Boston beat Chicago 3-2, Texas split with Baltimore, winning 10-6 and losing 13-1, Milwaukee belted Oakland 8-4, New

Walt Garrison quits; Dallas Cowboys hurt

DALLAS (AP) - Without fanfare, veteran fullback Walt Garrison quietly announced his retirement Friday, leaving quarterback Roger Staubach as the lone survivor of the 1974 starting backfield of the Dallas Cowbovs.

Tailback Calvin Hill jumped the club to play for Hawaii in the World Football League. It was yet another blow to a team which reached its peak with a victory over Miami in the 1971 Super Bowl. Only weeks ago All-Pro defensive tackle Bob Lilly announced his retirement, and ageing split end Bob Hayes was traded to San Francisco.

York nipped Kansas City 5-4 and Minnesota defeated Cleveland 8-4.

Contrary to what a lot of fans might think, Houk believes the Tigers simply aren't playing that badly

"Tonight was the first time we've been whipped like that in quite a while," he said, noting that in the streak Detroit has lost seven games by one run and five others by two runs.

The game was a prelude to nine exhibitions scheduled for today, two on Sunday and one Monday night.

Prospective golfers should attend the meeting which will be held in room 150. Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the senior high school.

his squad working on the running game during the morning drizzles. The 1975 Washington C.H. grid edition worked on the passing game in the afternoon when the rain let up.

Pfeifer's squad has not worked on defense yet waiting for Monday's go ahead for contact drills. "Defense is just as important as the offense, but we believe not as much technique is required. So we have been waiting to get into pads before looking at the defense," the Blue Lion mentor said.

Pfeifer has also devoted alot of time to the kicking game, and that's primarily what Miami Trace head coach Fred Zechman had his squad working on Friday. "We want to get these things in before the hitting starts," Zechman said refering to his kicking game. The Panthers worked on kick

The Panther coaching staff has been Blue Lion coach Maurice Pfeifer had looking at Art Schlichter, Bill Warnock and Tony Walters as possible punting candidates while Warnock and Dave Hennessy have been practicing as place kickers.

Zechman also had his squad working on offensive timing during sweeps and three Panthers, Jack James, Brad Smith and Steve Waters, were singled out for their ability to pull from the guard position.

The Panthers defensive secondary also took a little time to work on their zone coverage again Friday.

Both county squads will be in pads for the first time today in preparation for the lifting of the no-hitting ban on Monday

The Blue Lions Player-Parent Picnic will be held Monday at 6:30 p.m. in Washington Park, and on the following Monday at 3 p.m. behind the senior high school, the annual "Photograph the Blue Lions Day" will be held and is open to the public.

Dins Skipper wins

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP)—Dins Skipper slogged through the mud to an easy two-length victory to win the $3,000 featured pace mile at Latonia Friday night in 2:07.4-5.

It was his fifth straight victory and the winner paid $2.80, $2.40 and $2.80. F.D. Adios placed, $7 and $2.80 and Bolos Fame, third, $2.80. Hi Sady combined 2-2 with Prove Out for $16.80 in the daily double and the crowd of 2,124 bet $151,343.

who completed about 40 per cent of his passes in the Bengals' earlier preseason losses to Washington and

"Yes, I would be worried if I wasn't throwing the ball well in practice," he continued. "It was just that I was aiming it a little, maybe I was just a little nervous and maybe I was just trying to do well in the beginning."

On Cincinnati's first series, Anderson marched the Bengals from their 34 to the Buffalo 13 and then hit veteran wide receiver Charlie Joiner with a touchdown pass. After the Bills came back to tie the score, on a nine-yard TD aerial from Joe Ferguson to Reuben Gant, Anderson connected with Joiner on a 40-yard scoring pass.

For Coach Lou Saban of the Bills, it was "an interesting game for me.

"We got some answers to some very difficult questions," he said.

'It was a disappointing effort as far as the defense was concerned. I've got to find some help soon, but I can't be impatient for the simple reason I can't afford to make a mistake.

Buffalo running-back O.J. Simpson, held to 18 yards for the second successive time in preseason play did not appear downhearted.

"I'm right on," he said, "I don't feel I'm missing anything."

Simpson, carried the ball only five times, said that in preseason games, "you tend to work on things you need to work on.

"Like we have certain bread and butter plays that we know will work. like our off tackle play. I run that all the time during the regular season, but I didn't run it once tonight. We've got the personnel to win the Super Bowl, that's for sure, and when we get Tony Greene back we can do it.'

NCAA says cost curbs have worked

CHICAGO (AP) - The executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association says a special cost-cutting convention has saved college sports programs more than $15 million and rejects charges that the NCAA was attempting to end conference and institutional autonomy.

"I'm just making a barnyard guess, but I'd say Divisions I and II saved in excess of $15 million just by the cuts in the scholarships and reductions in the size of coaching staffs," Walter Byers said Friday at the end of a two-day business session attended by more than 800 delegates. It was the second special convention in NCAA history

But he admitted that a number of new regulations-particularly the one chopping total tootball scholarships at Davision I schools from 105 to 95 would create better balance by making more high school athletes available to more colleges.

And he predicted that "some sort of reorganization" beyond the three divisions into which the NCAA divided two years ago "will eventually take place," perhaps with the major powers forming a super conference.

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) Hubert Green, in a slump most of the season, has a share of the lead in the $200,000 Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament. He's hitting his irons very well. He's putting good. His game seems back in gear.

Their first child was due Friday. Green, displaying a notable lack of expectant-father jitters, blazed over the 6,598-yard Wethersfield Country Club course in six-under-par 65 and, at 131, was 11 under par and tied with the veteran Bies for the top spot halfway through this chase for a $40,000 first prize.

"It was a good round, much better than yesterday," said Green, who won four titles and more than $200,000 last season but fell into a deep slump this year. "I hit my irons so close to the hole I thought I was Johnny Miller for a while. I scared myself.

By ANDY LANG Repairing damaged brickwork is a necessary part of Champion house maintenance, not only for cause it can prevent leaks on the inside of the house.

Brick mortar may deteriorate because of house settling, leaving open spaces that contribute to drafts and allow the entry of rain during high winds. The deficient mortar may be spotted as open spaces between two or more bricks.

Repointing (a professional word used to describe the replacement of crumbling mortar) can be learned by anyone. The chore has been simplified by the availability of small bags of premixed mortar. Preventing Post-Operative Problems

New methods of increasing the safety of surgery and the safety of anesthesia are constantly being reported from hospitals all over the world.

The prevention of postoperative complications is one of the goals of these studies.

Two of the complications after surgery are now being reduced by a special type of electrical stimulation in the area of the surgical wound.

Dr. Alan C. Hymes, of the Methodist Hospital in Minneapolis, believes that this type of gentle electrical stimulation "reduces pain and allows people to relax."

The added benefits are that lung and intestinal complications are markedly reduced.

The electrical stimulation method has been tried before for the relief of pain. Now, it may have wide application for use in the post-operative period.

Ultrasonic vibrations are being used to detect heart defects in premature infants.

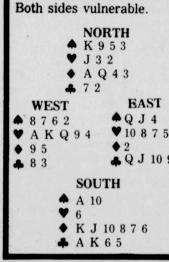

At the Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena, Calif., Dr. L. Stephen Gordon and his associates are using this special technique to distinguish between the various kinds of heart malformations.

This method adds to the more exact diagnosis which can be established at the time of birth.

Bob Snyder and Mrs. Peggy Malek showed Tuesday that bridge is no game for the timid. Slams popped up regularly in the east-west hands, and this pair reached far more slams than any other.

> In spite of holding only 25 points, south accurately judged that the points for his side were well placed and slam offered a good play.

> After finding that the opponents possessed most of the points in hearts (which did not bother South at all) and that partner held some values in spades as well as diamonds, South checked for aces and bid the cold slam.

The key to the slam is recognizing that if North holds enough points to bid freely twice, and the opponents hold enough hearts to bid to the three level, North will likely cover South's club losers either with points in clubs, or more likely with spades discards.

If North holds only four spades - as was the case the diamond support must be quite good, leaving very little room for North to hold clubs. As predicted by South, North provided the two club ruffs necessary to make the con-

Seven full tables played Tuesday at the Washington Inn. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wright, who sat north-south, topped all comers with a score of 105. Finishing second north-south were Mr. and Mrs. Craig Vandemark, who had 93.

First place east-west went to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stark who tallied 91. Bill Horne and George Malek finished second with 90. Last week's leader in the participation competition, Mrs. Charles Fabb, faltered Tuesday, and the strong finish by Mrs. Vandemark carried her into first place. Mrs. Vandemark has 113 points, Mrs. Fabb 106.

The Island of Jersey in the English Channel is proud of the more than 50 species of birds which fly over and around this little British protectorate. Four of the endangered species are depicted on a new issue of stamps by Jersey. Topical collectors, of course, will be looking for this set.

The 4 pence shows the Common Tern, which is not as common as its name suggests. This graceful bird has semi-transparent wings and hovers in flight before diving for fish.

The 5 pence illustrates the Storm Petrel which is usually seen alone following sea-going craft. They are difficult to find and study.

The 8 pence features the Brent Goose which flies down after breeding on the Arctic shores of the Soviet Union and Greenland to winter on Jersey's milder coast. The Brent is the smallest and darkest of the European "black" geese.

The 25 pence pictures the Shag, a member of the cormorant family with a distinctive crest. Familiar to local Jersey people is the Shag's loud and rasping croak while at its nesting on the north coast cliffs.

Stamp collectors and U.S. Bicentennial enthusiasts can compete for 10 prizes in the American First Day Cover Society's "First-Day Guessing Contest." The object of the contest is to guess the number of first-day cancellations applied to covers bearing one or more of the Mil-

Each contestant should write his or her guess on a postal card with name and address, then mail the card to AFDCS Contest, 12 School St., Plymouth, N.H. 03264. All entries must be received by Aug.

First prize will be an official presentation album for the Military Services stamps donated by the U.S. Postal Service. Contestants with the next nine closest guesses will be awarded Bicentennial first-day covers.

The Republic of China (Taiwan) has issued four new stamps featuring famous Chinese folk tales. This new set is part of the promotional effort on behalf of the Chinese Cultural Renaissance Campaign, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The movement was initiated in 1965 on the centennial of the birth of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, father of the Chinese Republic. Each stamp in the folk tale series highlights one of the famous Chinese stories reflecting the spirit of Chinese culture. The stamps will be available soon at your local dealer.

Two widely separated lands have issued stamps honoring the 14th Boy Scout Jamboree being held in Norway this summer. Grenada, in the Caribbean, has released seven stamps and a souvenir sheet showing scouts at work. All of the designs bear the official Boy Scout emblem. The Maldives, in the Indian Ocean, pay tribute to the Jamboree with a three value overprint. The words "14th Boy Scout Jamboree, July 29 — August 7, 1975" are inscribed on the three values issued by the Maldives for its 1975 Boy Scout issue.

Village of Blue Ball seeks sphere long since vanished

BLUE BALL, Ohio (AP)— Residents of this unincorporated crossroads community are rummaging through closets and thumbing through old annuals looking for a piece of their past.

They are seeking clues to the blue ball that gave the town its name and which has since vanished from public

It is known that a wood globe hung from a post in front of the Blue Ball in in 1820. That crude, but adequate advertisement for the popular coach stop, gave way in time to a ball made of tin.

Eventually however, the "Old Brick" as the inn was called was torn down, although the site is still a haven for travelers seeking refreshments. Today, motorists can pull their cars under the neon lights of the Blue Ball Dairy Bar, which has become sort of an institution in itself.

When the tavern closed, the ball dangled for awhile from a pole across the street, where it was a choice target for youthful pranks.

"They shot at it, put all kinds of holes in it. You know how boys are."

The last anyone remembers was that the bullet-ridden ball had been displaced by a cement ball placed atop a stone marker. That was in 1924 and sometime after that the namesake monument was toppled by an errant auto, the ball rolled off, and into ob-

"What happened to it after that we don't know," Mrs. Hinkle said. "Some of us around here can remember just what happened to it.

Faced with the prospect of being unable to find the original, Mrs. Hinkle's Historical Society is planning to erect a new blue ball in 1976 in commemoration of the Bicentennial year. This one, Mrs. Hinkle hopes, will roll

County mishaps increase

Although traffic accidents increased during the month of July as compared to a year ago, injuries decreased.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson reported 72 accidents for the past month and 22 injuries in his monthly activity report. During July of last year totaled 63 traffic mishaps and 28 injuries.

Also reported for the month of July. 1975 were 35 larcenies, 15 incidents of property destruction, seven burglaries, six fires in the county, five bad checks, 4 missing persons, one assault, one airplane crash, one suicide and one incident of trash dumping

Speck against prison policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There are better solutions to crowded prisons than turning prisoners loose under shock probation or shock parole, Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, said

Speck, in a statement, said he was 'greatly disturbed' with some state officials urging that local judges reduce the rate at which they sentence persons to prison.

Speck said despite budget problems he thinks there are alternatives. He
